

JOB SPECIFICATION

Title: Innovation Developer (1163619DA) – KTP Associate

Reporting To: Technical Director

Role Description:

- Carry out Enterprise activities using applied research, to transfer theoretical knowledge in materials, under supervision of a project leader.
- Design, construct and evaluate products / prototypes, models in relation to developing improved window casement design that will include liaising and negotiating with designers, specifiers, installer and end users.
- Consult effectively on own specialism directly with clients or other stakeholders external to the University: develop an area of specialism; may be responsible for peer-to-peer relationship management with client staff.
- Propose specifications/solutions to meet client and other stakeholder need, including pricing considerations. This can include taking a lead on specific technical offerings within a facility for enterprise clients.
- Write and edit reports.
- Share knowledge and expertise by conducting training.
- Any other duties as allocated by the line manager following consultation with the post holder.

Scope:

- Ensure all procedures are met within the Role Description
- Ensure close and effective working relationship with the Design Office Manager, Technical Team and all other Departments.

Key Performance Indicators:

- Clear and concise reporting on Product Development, in a timely manner through CRM, NPD and management meetings.
- Good communication with customers, suppliers and all other Departments relating to Design issues.

Skills Required

- Masters or equivalent professional qualifications and experience in material science, structural engineering or a related field of science.
- Proficient in the use of AutoCad 2016 and earlier versions
- Excellent organisation skills.
- Proven ability to develop a project plan.
- Good communication.
- Ability to travel across the UK to meet the requirements of the project.